1. Quotations

There are several ways to include quotations in your document.

1.1 callout blocks

1.1.1 default

> Note
> Note that there are five types of callouts, including: `note`, `warning`, `important`, `tip`, and `caution`.

1.1.2 custom

By using the fenced-div syntax, quotes can be easily embedded in the text. This allows rendering to HTML and PDF with the same syntax. The following examples show the various possibilities.

1.1.2.1 without title

::: {.my-callout}
By using the fenced-div syntax, quotes can be easily embedded in the text. This ↪  allows rendering to HTML and PDF with the same syntax. The following
↪  examples show the various possibilities.

1.1.2.2 with title

::: {.my-callout title="Custom Title"}

Custom Title

By using the fenced-div syntax, quotes can be easily embedded in the text. This allows rendering to HTML and PDF with the same syntax. The following examples show the various possibilities.

1.2 colorbox

Using the latex package tcolorbox, you can include quotations in a colored box. This only works in PDF renders so far and isnt included in the HTML.

"The only limit to our realization of tomorrow is our doubts of today."

- Franklin D. Roosevelt

2.   Abbreviations

A Central Processing Unit (CPU) is the brain of a computer. The CPU is responsible for executing a sequence of stored instructions called a program.

3. Introduction

Welcome to our Quarto book project. This chapter focuses on basic text formatting, including headings, subheadings, and paragraphs.

3.1 Subheading Example

Here's a look at simple text formatting in a Quarto document. This includes:

- Bold text for emphasis
- Italicized text for titles or key terms
- `Inline code` for highlighting code snippets within text

4.   Mathematical Content and Formulas

This section includes an inline formula: $e^{i\pi} + 1 = 0$ which demonstrates an important identity in mathematics.

Displayed formula:

$$e^{i\pi} + 1 = 0$$

5. Scientific Units and Special Characters

This chapter demonstrates the use of scientific units and special characters:

- Water boils at 100 °C.
- The symbol for micro is μ.
- The German letter ß is used in "straße," meaning street.

6. Interactive Content with Widgets

We use R packages like `plotly` and `leaflet` to create interactive content.

6.1 Plotly Graph

```r
library(plotly)
library(palmerpenguins)
data(penguins, package = "palmerpenguins") plot_ly(data = penguins, x = ~bill_length_mm, y = ~bill_depth_mm, type = ↪  'scatter', mode = 'markers')

Figure 6.1 shows a scatter plot of bill length vs. bill depth in penguins. You can hover over the points to see the data values. It is created using the `plotly` package.

6.2 Leaflet Map

7. Tables in Various Formats

We will create tables using Markdown, coded tibbles, and gt tables using the Palmer Penguins data.

7.1 Markdown Table

Table 7.1.: Penguin species and their bill lengths recorded on different islands.

Species	Island	Bill Length (mm)
Adelie	Torgersen	39.1
Chinstrap	Dream	46.5
Gentoo	Biscoe	50.0

7.2 Coded Tables with gt

Table 7.2.: Table showing the first few entries of penguin species data.

7.3 GT Tables (interactive)
